Another year at Wabash College is winding down. Seniors have completed "Comps" and are beginning to focus on their life ahead. Spring is starting to turn the campus green again after a particularly hard long winter, much like the winter of 1978. Graduation will occur in May and the cycle will start all over again.

The College has a new 16th president, Dr. Gregory Hess. With a PhD in economics from John Hopkins University, he comes to Wabash after serving as Dean of Faculty and Vice-President for academic affairs at Claremont McKenna College in California. Wabash is better than ever with great academics and strong athletic program.

Next September will be 40 years since the class of 1979 started our brief time at Wabash. For myself, those 4 years while fleeting were pivotal in the culmination of the ensuing 35 years. I imagine many of you feel the same. This June (6-8) we will celebrate 35 years from graduation. The Big Bash is a great time to become reacquainted with Wabash College and visit with old friends. I encourage you to consider returning to Crawfordsville, Indiana for a great weekend in early June.
